Projektmitglieder bestimmen

The administrator of the Bimplus project appoints the project members for this project. The project administrator can invite any email address to take part in Bimplus.

By assigning different member roles to the project members, the project administrator can give the members different rights, thus controlling who is authorized to view, download, or edit project data. A project member who is also a project administrator can invite more members to this project (see “Rights in Bimplus”).

Topics in this chapter:

Inviting project members

Accepting the invitation to Bimplus

Changing the role (= access rights) of a project member

Removing members from a project
